The young duke of Marlborough lost the thread of his discourse when addressing his tenants on their welcome to Blenheim and the duchess had to pat him on the back. This, however, is better than if she had not to nudge him for saying the wrong thing.

The case of Mr. Knapp, the American missionary, who has fallen victim to the ban of the Turkish government, is developed in a good deal of mystery, but it is pretty safe to assume that the man who is out of favor with Turkey is in the right.

The arrest of Herr Altvater in New York indicates that the Kaiser is having a taste of his own medicine. The carriage he had managed to arrive drove he opened his anti-Semitic campaign in this country it would be hard to guess.

The British expedition into the Sonian is considered to be in danger. The leaders appear to be committing the mistake of underestimating the enemy, and may pay dearly for it some day in the maladministration of the advance column at the hands of the derwishes.

The project for the kidnapping of Cornelius Vanderbilt should have been postponed to a quieter season. It would possibly not have been a success, but it would have stood a better chance of receiving attention. There are too many counter attractions just now.

A Chicago man broke off his engagement because the young lady wore too many bloomers, and she averaged matters up by trying to win him with a better chance of receiving attention. There are too many counter attractions just now.

It seems that there was a screw loose in the machines by which the Cuban patriots were garroted last week. This accounts for the fatality of the execution. It has been evident for some time that there was a screw loose in the Spanish management of Cuban affairs.

The April Fool championship of the world belongs to a Kansas billy. He disguised himself as a tramp and called on his wife, and is now an incoherent dethroned, having frightened her to death. A man like that could blow down the muzzle of an unloaded gun without exciting a single protest from his neighbors.

It is only one of the many rumors from the mixed conditions of the other side that England and Spain have formed an alliance, offensive and defensive. With the decaying empire and Italy under the "protecting" wing of Great Britain the dreadnought appears to be a necessary part of the combination, leaving Russia and France to constitute an opposing coalition.

A loss of nearly $150,000,000 a year from fires is not the only tax the American people pay for careless methods of building. New York city, for instance, has in service 100 steam engines, 100 hose carriages, 40 hook ladders and trucks, 5 water towers and a hand engine. This country is immeasurably behind Europe in sound, economic building ideas.

The latest German census shows that the city of Berlin has doubled its population within twenty-five years. This growth is doubtless attributable in a measure to the fact towards the city from the agricultural districts, which is said to be as marked in Germany as it has been in the United States.

The Mississippi mob that drove an unfortunate colored man from his home because a case of smallpox had originated there, and shot and clubbed him nearly to death before he was taken to the hospital, and the other children, could give the Yankee in his pointers and might also furnish a text for some more sensational speeches about the inhumanity of man to man.

A French writer who shows an extensive knowledge of naval affairs, says the great battle ships of England look more formidable than they are, and that their crews are insufficient in number and training. If this is true, it applies equally to French ships. The memory of Trafalgar and Nelson will serve France a wiser purpose than any disparagement of the enormous fleets of Britannia, even if they have been untied for many years.

The arena of Napoleonic discussion, already somewhat over-crowded, is now graced by the figure of John L. Sullivan. Mr. Sullivan, who has been as to say that Napoleon was all right, if he was little, and that he was "a clever little chap." The potential fate of the world is at stake.

In the Keenoching district an evergreen shrub flourishes, and on its twigs in the spring of the year countless flies swarm like a brown film. The branches become covered with a white, waxy incrustation, that increases in volume until the autumn, when the sprays are cut off and plunged into boiling water. The wax rises to the surface and is then skimmed off in large pans. The value of the annual crop on an average is considerably in excess of $1,000,000.

The arrest of Herr Althardt in New York indicates that the baiter is having a taste of his own medicine. On what outrage he has managed to thrive since he opened his anti-Semitic campaign in this country it would be hard to guess.

The British expedition into the Sonian is considered to be in danger. The leaders appear to be committing the mistake of underestimating the enemy, and may pay dearly for it some day in the annihilation of the advance column at the hands of the devils.

The project for the kidnapping of Cornelius Vanderbilt should have been postponed to a quieter season. It would possibly not have been a success, but it would have stood a better chance of receiving attention. There are too many counter attractions just now.

A Chicago man broke off his engagement because the young lady wore bloomers, and she averaged matters up by lying in wait for him with a club. This might pass for revenge, but it was hardly calculated to show the young man repent of his rashness.

It seems that there was a screw loose in the machines by which the Cuban patriots were garroted last week. This accounts for the barbarity of the execution. It has been evident for some time that there was a screw loose in the Spanish management of Cuban affairs.

The April Fool championship of the world belongs to a Kansas biped. He disguised himself as a tramp and called on his wife, and is now an incensed widower, having frightened her to death. A man like that could blow down the muzzle of an unloaded gun without exciting a single protest from his neighbors.

It is only one of the many rumors from the mixed conditions on the other side that England is not so much a nation of shopkeepers as she is a nation of thieves. With the decaying empire and Italy under the "protecting" wings of Great Britain the droubaird appears to be a necessary part of the combination, leaving Russia and France to constitute an opposing coalition.

A loss of nearly $100,000,000 a year from fire is not the only tax the American people pay for careless methods of building. New York city, for instance, has in service 150 steam engines, 105 hose carriages, 40 hook and ladder trucks, 5 water towers and 3 hand engines. This country is immense.

The latest German census shows that the city of Berlin has doubled its population within twenty-five years. This growth is doubtless attributable in a measure to the fact that the Germans are not so much interested in the agricultural districts, which is said to be as marked in Germany as it has been in the United States.

The Mississippi mob that drove an unfortunate colored man from his home because a case of smallpox had originated there, and shot and clubbed him nearly to death before his wife and children could escape, is not the only mob in the South. Inquisitors pointers and night also furnish a text for some more sensational speeches about the inhumanity of man to man.

A French writer who shows an extensive knowledge of naval affairs, says the great battle ships of England look more formidable than they are, and that their crews are inefficient in numbers and training. If this is true, it applies equally to French ships. The memory of Trafalgar and Nelson will serve France a wiser purpose than any display of the enormous fleets of Britain, even if they have been untired for many years.

The arena of Napoleonic discussion, already somewhat overcrowded, is now graced by the four comestful dies of John T. Sullivan. Mr. Sullivan has gone so far as to say that Napoleon was all right, if he was little, and that he was a "clever little chap." The potential fate of Imperial Caesar, who, dead and turned to lead, might stop a hole in the wind away, was not so unkind as this. To be dead enough to be patronized by John T. is to be very dead.

In the Keenecahn district an evergreen shrub flourishes, and on its twigs the spring of the year comestful dies. It is a shrub which has been known to grow as soon as covered with a white, snow incrustation, that increases in volume until the autumn, when the sprays are cut off and plunged into boiling water. The wax rises to the surface and is then skimmed off and allowed to cool and harden in large pans. The value of the annual crop on an acre is considerably in excess of Nations for Growing Pigs.

If for forcing pigs to market purposes, regardless of expense, I'd recommend fresh warm milk, and it comes from the cow, with corn meal for all the rest. Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Real Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Wants Pryde's Sentence Commuted.

The following circular has been printed and mailed to numerous citizens of Brainerd and Crow Wing county, the import of which will be seen by a perusal:
Crow Wing county has outstanding $25,000 registered orders; the city has about $20,000; the school district owes $11,000 and will commence the next school year without a dollar to pay teachers, and every school district in the county needs money. The tax rate is now 4 1/2 per cent in the city. The Pryde hanging will cost about $800, the customary sheriff's fee being $500. Has not the county the great expense of a trial by pleading guilty, and supposed that by doing so and showing his previous irreproachable character and reputation he would be favored a little. He has no known relatives except a sister who sews for her living. He is a common working man and only 21 years of age. No motive can be shown or imagined for the crime except the desire to be a regular attendant at church and the Y. M. C. A. His employers trusted him implicitly to care for their property and their children.

I believe hanging a relic of barbarism and an opportunity for the Christian religion, and that where the legislature has allowed the death penalty, it should, in the interest of decency and the moral welfare of the community, be executed in the state prison, painlessly and without publicity, and thus avoiding contamination of the minds of children and persons of feeble intellect and insensitively brutalizing the whole community.

The only argument for a death penalty is that it will deter others from committing like crimes, which if not believed by most students of penology, is conclusively disproven by the fact that not only was this murder committed shortly after the Hayward hanging, and was the direct result of the influence of that hanging and its attendant circumstances, but this was followed by another in Duluth committed by two young men, seventeen and eighteen years old, without cause, except that one of them remarked that he would show people that Harry Hayward's nerve was not in it with his.

A large proportion of the children of the state, and persons naturally criminally inclined, have instinctively discerned by the fact that not only was this murder committed shortly after the Hayward hanging, and was the direct result of the influence of that hanging and its attendant circumstances, but this was followed by another in Duluth committed by two young men, seventeen and eighteen years old, without cause, except that one of them remarked that he would show people that Harry Hayward's nerve was not in it with his.

I have tried, unsuccessfully, to get data as to the number of murders committed and attempted since our law was changed in 1886, as I believe the proportion has been far greater than before.

I believe a hanging to be a disgrace and an incalculable injury to any civilized community, and hope you will join in a petition to the governor to commute Pryde's sentence to life imprisonment.

If you will, please write "yes" on the enclosed postal and mail it. If one hundred representative citizens of the county sign, the governor will probably grant the petition.
LEON E. LUM.

The following petition will be circulated, Mr. Lum having received promises of their signatures from numerous citizens:
Hos. DAVID M. CLOUGH, Governor of Minnesota.

The undersigned, citizens of Crow Wing and Cass counties, would respectfully petition that the sentence of John Pryde, who pleaded guilty to the murder of Harry Hayward, be commuted to life imprisonment for the following reasons:

First. That the execution of the death sentence will be a disgrace and an incalculable injury to any civilized community, and hope you will join in a petition to the governor to commute Pryde's sentence to life imprisonment.

Second. That there will be no inducement in the future for an indicted criminal to plead guilty and accept the penalty of death, if instead of preventing murders experience in this state within the last six months alone has shown conclusively that it tends to promote crime; that it fascinates weak-minded people who perhaps, an inherited tendency to crime, which we believe, to be the case with Pryde; that it inhumanly brutalizes the community, and that it exercises a particularly baneful effect on children.

We believe the Pryde murder and the recent murder in Duluth, committed by boys seventeen and eighteen years old, to be traceable to, and the result of the Hayward hanging; and call attention to the fact that the recent grand jury in Minneapolis refused to indict for murder in the first degree.

We believe it for the best interest of this community, and for the public welfare, that this, our petition, be granted.

MARRIED.

Mr. Geo. C. Hopperly, of Pocatello, Idaho, was united in marriage to Miss Minnie Bixby, at Oklawaha, this county, on Wednesday, Rev. D. D. McKay officiating. The wedding occurred at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bixby, only relatives being present. The couple left yesterday for their home in Idaho, where they will reside in the future, followed by the congratulations and best wishes of a host of friends.

Miss Mary E. Hartley, well known in this city, was married at Duluth on Wednesday evening to Rev. Lewis G. Rogers, of Buffalo, N. Y., at the residence of G. G. Hartley, the bride's brother. The couple will spend the summer in England.

Foreman—A. Reinthal.
First Asst.—Joseph Joseph.
Second Asst.—Joseph Weitzel.
Secretary—W. H. Saddler.

On Tuesday evening Hose Co. No. 1 elected the following officers:
Foreman—James McCabe.
First Asst.—George Bell.
Second Asst.—Peter Johnson.
Secretary—James Baker.
Treasurer—John Baber.

DEATHS.

James J. Eastman died at his home in this city on Monday last of pneumonia, aged 53 years, after an illness of a few days. Services were conducted on Wednesday from the Presbyterian church, Rev. D. D. McKay officiating, and the remains were buried in Evergreen Cemetery, the members of the Masonic fraternity and the order of the Eastern Star attending in a body. The deceased was a well known and respected citizen, and a brother of Alvin Eastman, and leaves a wife and five children to mourn his death.

The remains of Mrs. John Farley, who died at Staples on Tuesday, were brought to this city yesterday for burial, funeral ceremonies being conducted from the Catholic church, Rev. Father Lynch officiating. The deceased was 55 years of age.

A Daylight Robbery.
On Saturday afternoon Alf. Simpson was robbed of $20 in money and a watch at the Last Turn saloon. It appears that Simpson and three other fellows were drinking together during the day and in the afternoon were enjoying themselves at the above place when Simpson was gotten into a back room or in the alley when two of the fellows held him while the third one went through him for his valuables and immediately fled. Complaint was made to the authorities but two of the parties had gotten out of town and telegrams were sent to the neighboring cities, the thieves being taken into custody at Detroit, to which place Sheriff Spalding went on Monday and returned with them. They gave their names as Ole Jacobson and Tom Lee. Their trial will come on April 24th, the charge being grand larceny in the second degree.

Robbed a Blind Man.
George West, a blind man, who was in the city on his way to Ann Arbor, Mich., to have his eyes operated on, was robbed of $14.50 at the City Hotel on Monday night by a fellow named Jim Morris, who was employed about the hotel in the capacity of porter. Morris took the blind man up to his room at bed time, and, according to Mr. West's statement, requested him to turn over what money he had for safe keeping, stating that he would put it in the safe. Mr. West objected but Morris insisted and gained his point, taking $14.50 out of West's pants pocket, and when he left locked the door on the outside. With the money Morris proceeded to the west end of city and had a high old time, leaving on an early train for Staples, where he was arrested and turned over to Sheriff Spalding on Wednesday. A petition was circulated and $12 raised for Mr. West to replace the money he had lost. The charge against Morris is petty larceny.

Base Ball at Staples.
The Staples base ball was organized for the '96 season Saturday night, with H. C. Miller, president, W. J. Lewis, vice-president, A. L. Ritter, secretary; E. E. Daniels, treasurer; Wm. Tunison, manager; A. J. Sorvieg, C. E. McMullen, W. A. Miller, Robert Klein, J. Orlando, directors. A new fence is to be put up and a cinder path built for the accommodation of cyclists. Considerable enthusiasm was shown, and Staples expects to put a first class team against all comers.

"The Brownies."
One of the most unique, but pleasing entertainments ever seen in this city, will be the production of "The Brownies" at the Sleeper opera house on Friday evening, May 1st, under the auspices of the ladies of the Congregational church. The play will be presented under the direction of Geo. Min, of Chicago, who is the owner of the play, and who carries a complete outfit in the way of costumes and scenery for its production on a large scale. The characters will be impersonated by local talent, about 75 children being necessary for its production. Mrs. J. N. Nevers and Miss Larline Cale, and other ladies, are now and have been for the past two weeks, engaged in drilling the little ones in the songs and dialogues, and they report that fine progress is being made. Mr. Min will arrive some days before his presentation with the costumes, and will complete the work of preparing the play. He has been engaged in this work for some time, and has been very successful, as many flattering press notices he has received will testify. Those engaged in the work say they are surprised at the bright and catchy music and witty dialogues and funny situations that the piece contains. It will be a rare treat for the children for they will be able to observe with their own eyes the funny characters that the able pen of Mr. Palmer Cox has created in the imagination of almost every child in the land. Concerning the work of Mr. Min elsewhere we publish the following:

"The Brownies in Fairland" captured Keokuk last night. Out of a big balloon they dropped, queer little midgelets that sprawled and tumbled about, and talked and sang in little tiny voices, and disported with pretty fairies, all glittering with sparkles and robed in filmy gowns of lace. No prettier or more dainty entertainment has ever been given here. The whole play was delightful and refreshing, and the audience was charmed from the first song to the closing tableau.—Keokuk (Ia.) Gate City, April 16th, 1904.

In the future the Northern Pacific passenger trains will arrive and depart from the platform in front of the depot instead of the Arlington Hotel as has been the custom for some years. It seems that a government official in the mail service missed his train here on account of not knowing that the trains started from the platform 100 feet from the depot and in consequence caught out for damage, and is the cause of the change, and he has the thanks of the traveling public.

The Atkin Age says that Emil J. Hall, late of the A. E. Johnson Emigration company, has been offered the agency for the Northern Pacific railroad lands for Atkin, Crow Wing, Cass and adjoining counties, and if he accepts he will probably open a headquarters office at Brainerd, and operate from that point. Mr. Hall was very successful in locating immigrants and land seekers while with the Johnson Co., and if his work in this county is a criterion to judge by, the Northern Pacific people will secure in him the services of a valuable man.

The Georgia University Graduates under the management of J. Edward George gave two delightful performances at the opera house on Friday and Saturday evenings of last week, to fair-aided audiences. The company travels its own private car and carries a band. A street parade was given at noon each day, the band on each occasion rendering delightful music. The company is a strong musical organization, the singing of the Swanee Quartette being especially fine. The jokes were all new and fresh and free from vulgarity, and the specialty work was equally good. Prof. Watkins, the ventriloquist, was the best we have ever heard in this line.

Wheat Baking Powder ABSOLUTELY PURE

Wants Pryde's Sentence Commuted.

The following circular has been printed and mailed to numerous citizens of Brainerd and Crow Wing county, the import of which will be seen by a perusal:

Crow Wing county has outstanding $25,000 registered orders; the city has about $20,000; the school district owes $11,000 and the city owes $1,000 next school year without a dollar to pay teachers, and every school district in the county needs money. The tax rate is now 44 per cent in the city. The Pryde hanging will cost about $300, the customary sheriff's fee being $500. He saved the county the great expense of a trial by pleading guilty, and supposed that by doing so and showing his previous irreproachable character and reputation he would be favored a little. He has no known relatives, except a sister who sews for her living. He is a common working man and 23 years of age. No motive can be shown or imagined for the crime except the fascinating influence of the Hayward trial and hanging upon a weak mind. No one known to him had any previous to the crime. He neither used profane or vulgar language nor drank. He was a regular attendant at church and the Y. M. C. A. His employers respected him and he was a good worker for their property and their children.

I believe hanging a relic of barbarism and opposed to every principle of the Christian religion, and that where the legislature has allowed the death penalty, it should, in the interest of decency and the moral welfare of the community, be executed in the state prison, painlessly and without publicity, and thus avoiding contamination of the minds of children and persons of feeble intellect and insensitively brutalizing the whole community.

The only argument for a death penalty is that it will deter others from committing like crimes, which if it were not disbelieved by most students of penology, is conclusively disproven by the fact that not only was this murderer committed shortly after the Hayward hanging, and was the direct result of the influence of that hanging and its attendant circumstances, but this was followed by another in Duluth committed by two young men, seventeen and eighteen years old, without cause, except that one of them remarked that he would show people that Harry Hayward's nerve was not in it with him.

I have not, unsuccessfully, to get data as to the number of murders committed and attempted since our law was changed in 1898, as I believe the proportion has been far greater than before.

I believe a hanging to be a disgrace and an incalculable injury to any civilized community, and hope you will join in a petition to the governor to commute Pryde's sentence to life imprisonment.

If you will, please write "yes" on the enclosed postal and mail it. If one hundred representative citizens of the county sign, the governor will probably grant the petition.

LEON E. LUM.

The following petition will be circulated, Mr. Lum having received promises of their signatures from numerous citizens:

Hon. DAVID M. CLOUGH, Governor of Minnesota.

The undersigned, citizens of Crow Wing and Cass counties, would respectfully petition that the sentence of John Pryde, who pleaded guilty at the March, 1898, term of the district court of said counties, to murder in the first degree, be commuted to life imprisonment for the following reasons:

First. That the execution of the death sentence will be burdensome financially to a community already taxed to the limit of endurance.

Second. That there will be no inducement in the future for an indicted criminal to plead guilty and save the county the expense of a trial with a possibility of escaping altogether if he knows that he will receive the full penalty of the law anyway. We believe the plea of guilty should be taken as an exceptional circumstance under the law relating to murder.

Third. That hanging is a brutal punishment and a relic of an age whose ideas were foreign to our present civilization, the instead of preventing murders experience in this state within the last six months alone has shown conclusively that it tends to promote crime; that it fascinates weak-minded people with perhaps an inherited tendency to crime, which, we believe, to be the case with Pryde; that it insensitively brutalizes the community, and that it exercises a particularly baneful effect on children.

We believe the Pryde murder and the recent murder in Duluth, committed by boys seventeen and eighteen years old, to be traceable to, and the result of, the Hayward hanging, and call attention to the fact that the recent grand jury in Minneapolis refused to indict for murder in the first degree.

We believe it for the best interest of this community, and for the public welfare, that this, our petition, be granted.

MARRIED.

Mr. Geo. C. Heppner, of Postville, Idaho, was united in marriage to Miss Minnie Bixby, at Oakland, this county, on Wednesday, Rev. D. D. McKay officiating. The wedding occurred at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bixby, only relatives being present. The couple left yesterday for their home in Idaho, where they will reside in the future, followed by the congratulations and best wishes of a host of friends.

Miss Mary E. Hartley, well known in this city, was married at Duluth on Wednesday evening to Rev. Lewis G. Rogers, of Buffalo, N. Y., at the residence of G. G. Hartley, the bride's brother. The couple will spend the summer in England.

In the future the Northern Pacific passenger trains will arrive and depart from the platform in front of the depot instead of the Arlington Hotel as has been the custom for some years. It seems that a government official in the mail service missed his train here on account of not knowing that the trains started from the platform 100 feet from the depot and in consequence brought suit for damages, and is the cause of the change, and he has the thanks of the traveling public.

The Atkin Age says that Emil J. Hall, late of the A. E. Johnson Emigration company, has been offered the agency for the Northern Pacific railroad lands for Aitkin, Crow Wing, Cass and adjoining counties, and if he accepts he will probably open a headquarters office at Brainerd, and operate from that point. Mr. Hall was very successful in locating immigrants and land seekers while with the Johnson Co., and if his work in this county is a criterion to judge by, the Northern Pacific people will secure in him the services of a valuable man.

The Georgia University Graduates under the management of J. Edward George gave two delightful performances at the opera house on Friday and Saturday evenings of last week, to fair-sized audiences. The company travels its own private car and carries a band. A street parade was given at noon each day, the band on each occasion rendering delightful music. The company is a strong musical organization, the singing of the Swanee Quartette being especially fine. The jokes were all new and fresh and free from vulgarity, and the specialty work was equally good. Prof. Watkins, the violinist, was the best we have ever heard in this line.
